Discharged and Rearrested.—John W. Clarke was before the Police Court yesterday, accused of horse-stealing, and discharged for want of evidence. In the afternoon he was rearrested on the same charge and confined in the Hammond-street Station-house, to await another examination, which will probably take place before Judge Lowe within a day or two.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS,—At their regular diurnal session yesterday morning, the County Commismissioners passed orders amounting in the aggregate to $1,141 54, of which $1,130 04 were paid to Huston, Carleton & Co., for stone-work on the new jail, and $11 50 to C. After a long chase, Louden was rearrested; but Maddox, who having lost a finger, was thus enabled to rid himself of his irons, has not since been seen.

Another Murdenous Assault—A Man's Skull Severed with a Knife.—A difficulty occurred night before last on Vine-street Hill, near Mulberry-street, between a couple of neighbors, named Henry Rosener and Frark Mark, during which the latter was very severely injured. Rosener, we believe, invaded the house of his opponent armed with an immense knife, which he drove through his adversary's skull, inflicting a wound, from which it is thought he can not recover. He was subsequently arrested by officers Henry Bear and Hermen Meyers, and yesterday moraing committed, in default and yesterday morning committed in default of $1,000 ball, for examination next Monday, on the charge of an assault with intent to Singular and Complicated Affair-At-tempt to Sell Free Negroes.—The Memphis Bulletin, of a late date, has the following singular case of attempted kidnapping. As the parties all belong in this neighborhood, it may not prove uninteresting.

says: "James Franklin some time since married "James Franklin some time since married at Cincinnati a free woman of color, belonging to Covington, Ky., and, leaving her there, embarked on a steamer for New Orleans, last Thursday week, accompanied by a free man of color named Harmon Proctor, who passed as his servant, and A. W. Thomson, also a free man of color. On leaving Cincinnati, he told his wife that he did so with a view to the purchase of a stock of goods. a view to top in swine that he did so with a view to the purchase of a stock of goods preparatory to opening business there on his return. They landed at Vicksburg with a view to stopping there a day, but Thomson being told that he would be arrested and imperisoned if he remained, they left on the Educard J. Gay and landed here yesterday. Becoming dissatisfied with his supposed servant, Franklin, who all this time pretended to be blind, placed Proctor in a sale-yard on Adams street, where, on attempting yard on Adams-street, where, on attempting to trade him to a gentleman, the negro confessed to his being free, and in substantiation produced his papers, which, at his request, the purchaser handed to Franklin, who therenpon chewed and swallowed them. He then turned to Thompson, and claimed him also as his slave, whereupon the latter produced his papers, and stated that he was traveling with Franklin to take care of him, supplied him with money, and paid his expenses. The negroes were then taken back in the yard and severely whipped, as they deserved, and with their white companion were afterward lodged in jail." were afterward lodged in jail,"

TURE MATTERS IN CINCINNATI-Full Meeting at the Trotting-park.—We have been informed that arrangements have been completed for a regular Fall Meeting at the Cincinnati Trotting Park, which will be under the control of John L. Cassady and Thomas J. Stephens.

The managers have done their duty—a will be seen by glancing at the following list of purses—in the liberal inducements they offer to owners of horses, and we feel assured they will use every endeavor to render the meeting as attractive as possible. The trotting will commence on the second Tuesday of October, and continue five days, as follows:

Tuesday, October 6,—Purse, $250; mile heats, three in five, to harness; free for all horses that have never beaten 2.38.

Wednesday October 9.—Purse, $300; mile heats, three in five, to harness; free for all

Thursday, October 10.—Purse, $300; two-mile heats, to harness; free for all horses that have never beaten 2.35. have never beaten 2.35.

Friday, October 11—Purse, $200; mile heats three in five, to wagons; free for all horses that have never trotted for money,

Same day—Pacing; purse, $200; mile heats, best three in five; free to all horses, go as they please.

they please.

Sourday, October 12—Purse, $400; two-mile heats, to harness; free to all trotters.

For the above purses, all horses are excluded that have trotted in 2:28, except "Jack eluded that have trotted in 2:28, except "Jack Rossiter," but, in order to accommodate the horses, a purse of $2,000 is offered—$1,500 to the lirst, and $500 to the second—free to all horses, "Ethan Allen," "George M. Patchen and "Flora Temple" to be entered, to make the race—they are to go to harness, and all other horses to go as they please. In order to secure the attendance of the celebrities, Mr. Cassady leaves next week for the East, and he anticipates but little difficulty in the accomplishment of his mission.

In addition, the proprietors will offer good purses to a double-team and stallion trot, and from the well-known liberality which has

from the well-known liberality which has always characterized the senior manager in similar undertakings, we feel confident the forthcoming meeting will be one of the most brilliant ever held in the West.

Appearance of the Ground Yesterday-The Crowd, and who Compose it-More Entries of Stock-Mechanical and Other Departments-List of Premiums.

The Fair Grounds presented a far better sppearance yesterday than on the day previous. Many of the unfinished departments had been completed during Wednesday night, and much of the machinery, which, on the first day, was not in running order, was properly adjusted and attached to the power.

From the time the gate was opened in the morning, the sentinels were kept busy in taking tickets. Every train that arrived on the ground was compactly crowded, and as these came semi-hourly, the addition from this source alone was very great; besides these, a great many came in omnibuses and private conveyances, and by the middle of the afternoon 10,000 people were on the ground—an immense mass in itself, but in this instance only a forerunner of the dense crowd that is coming, and which must reach 50,000 by Tuesday next.

As is necessarily the case, it was of a very miscellaneous character. The great mass, however, is composed of farmers, grazers and mechanics, who are either exhibitors themselves, or have come to witness the stock, the machinery, &c., which others have entered. These men are easily known. Their carriage and demeanor indicate how deeply they are interested in the success of agriculture and the mechanic arts in this county, and which are ably represented on the ground. They are courteous, when spoken to, and molest none who appear to be engaged. They are really the sinew of the country—a class of men who, year by year, assume a greater importance in society, and who are destined to receive the recognition they deserve.

Newspaper men form another conspicuous and who are destined to receive the recog-nition they deserve.

Newspaper men form another conspicuous class, and aside from the badge to which they are entitled, they may be known by their peering curiosity, their bundle of paper and pencil, which are always held ready for use. From appearances, nearly every paper in the United States will be represented by shout ten persons.

The ladies are beginning to enliven the monotony. Few of them were on the ground on Wednesday, but yesterday they made their appearance in large numbers, which will be greatly augmented in a day or Sporting men are found plenty, anxious to stake upon the awards of premiums, &c. As yet, their bets have been mostly among themselves—sham, of course—and designed to draw in the credulous: but in this, we think, they will hardly succeed.

From all we can learn, pick-pockets are numerous, and have several times attempted to abstract money from the pockets of wealthy farmers, but as yet, we believe, without success.

The entries of stock, yesterday, were not large, but embrace nothing which could be deemed other than of the first quality. The display of horses in the show-ring was grand, and the competition animated. No less than twelve aged stallions were in the ring at one time, and the interest of both the owners and spectators was excited to the highest pitch; the first premium was finally awarded to the "American Boy," an animal in every way worthy. The entries of younger stallions of the same class, were much more meager, and no colts were taken into the meager, and no colts were taken into the

The mechanical department presented a marked improvement yesterday. A large amount of machinery was put in running order, and the power-hall was constantly crowded with visitors, and numerous were the encomiums pronounced upon the methe encomiums pronounced upon the me-chanics of Cincinnati, who are largely rep-resented there.

K. Vogel, of Boston, has on exhibition in Domestic Hall, near the west end, a novel sewing machine of a recent patent. This machine is not confined to a single kind of stitch, but is capable of adaptations by which it will work six different kind of stitches, several of which are entirely new, and will doubtless be much used when it is found how easily they can be made. These are the plain lock-stitch, and five different embroidery stitches, among which are a worked edge for coats and vests, making a finish in the place of cording or binding. This stitch also works button-holes of all kinds, a thing which we believe no other machine has yet accompliabled. The other four embroidery stitches may be used for, embroidering dresses, college was a series of the series may be used for embroidering dresses, col-lars, curtains, and the numerous other articles which need not be enumerated to women. The owner claims for this machine that it will do common work equal to the best machines, and other kinds of work that no other machine can do. The prices are from $50 to $125.

A COW-MILERR. The farmer need not smile at this, unless he smiles in gratification at the relief which it will bring to his wife and daughters, supposing that there are yet in the rural districts wives and daughters in such a state of innocent usefulness as to milk the cows. The thing has been done by a machine. But a few days ago we saw in the agricultural department of a New York paper an account of the milking of a large number of cows by one of these machines, to the entire satisfac-of the milking of a large number of cows by one of these machines, to the entire satisfaction of the cows and of several spectators. The milker consists of a milk-pail, a pump to make the suction, and four metallic teatcups, which fit any cow, without change. The movement of the pump produces the remitting suction which is equired. It is said to work rapid, and the cows like it, and surely the cows ought to know. The machine is exhibited in Domestic Hall, by Kersham & Colvin, of Philadelphia. The retail price is $10. retail price is $10.

ALDERNEY CATTLE. Mr. J. Howard McHenry, of Maryland, en-tered a herd of Alderney Cattle, the only ones on the ground, and as almost all classes were embraced in it, the premiums he re-ceived smounted to a handsome sum, as will be seen below. They were all, with one exception, nearly of a fawn color, and were really entitled to be classed as first-rate. BANK SAFES, AC.

One of the most attractive articles which we noticed in our visit to the United States Fair, yesterday, was the splendid bank safe, exhibited by the well-known manufacturers, Hall, Carroll & Co., of this city. It stands near the east end of Domestic Hall, and is constantly surrounded by a crowd, most of them attracted by the beautiful paintings with which it is decorated, and which are in themselves fine speciments of the decora-tive art. But to the merchant, who desires a place of deposit for his valuables, secure from the dangers of fire or robbers, or to the artificer, who admires mechanical ingenuity and workman-like execution, it has points of deeper interest. It seems to be in every respect what its name implies, a safe; equally efficient against the hottest fire, or the most persevering burglar.

In the first place the lining, instead of being wood, as is usually the case, is made of boiler-plate like the outer case, thus giving a double thickness of iron, and the filling is a material which becomes as hard as the beautiful linear way making it almost imposa material which becomes as hard as the hardest lime-rock, making it almost impossible to cut it through under any circumstances. This filling, moreover, always remains dry, thus preventing the dampness and tendency to mould, which has trequently been an objection to fire-proof safes. But the chief interest is in the lock, or rather locks, by which the doors are secured. Across the outer door extends a bar of iron sunk into the surface of the door itself, and fastened by a combination lock, which would be considered sufficiently safe for any ordinary money-box. But this is only the beginning. Undermeath this bar lies concealed the key-hole of one of the famous English Brama locks, securing a pair of doors about three inches in thickness, made of solid steel plates. These being opened, disclose, not the interior of the safe, but another pair of doors of equal strength, so deeply set not the interior of the safe, but another pair of doors of equal strength, so deeply set within the walls of the safe as to preclude any attempt to pry them off or burst them open, and fastened by one of Hall's Patent Tumbler-locks. Most persons would think this would be secure enough for any pur-pose, but such is not the opinion of Mesers.

Hall & Carroll. On opening these second doors, we find, deep wit, in the inmost recess of the vanit, a little cham, or, designed to receive the vary precious this 22 of the owner, and defended by another pal. of steel-plate doors, secured by the latest triumph of mechanism in this line, Hall's in provement on the famous Pond-lock.

What will be thought of a lock positively without key or keyhole, having no conmunication with the outside of the door, and operated by an ordinary knob and a simple wrench, capable of some 10,000,000 combinations; the bolts being shot to either one of which, it can only be opened by the one who closed it, or according to his directions. The very maker of the lock, even with the key, or rather wrench, in his possession, having no more chance of opening it when locked by another person, than the merest stranger. Yet such a lock may be seen in operation on this safe, and the gentleman in charge of it is always ready to show and explain its operation to any who desire. We would strongly recommend every person visiting the Fair, who has any taste for mechanical ingenuity, to examine this curious lock.

White's PATENT THEF-DETECTING MONEY-

WHITE'S PATENT THIEF-DETECTING MONEY-DRAWER. We fear that we may injure the prospects and fine sensibilities of the light-fingered gentry by describing this apparatus, which deliberately proposes to interfere with their profession. This is a money-drawer with a combination lock and an alarm. The drawer locks and adjusts itself, as it shuts, and then no one but the person that locked it can one in the without attribute the element. no one but the person that locked it can open it without striking the alarm—not even the patentee himself. The exhibitor shuts it before your eyes, and bids you unlock it if you can. You make the attempt and the alarm rings, and you may continue to work at it with the same result, but you can not open the drawer. The owner opens it in an instant, before your eyes, but still you can not do it without instructions. It requires no winding up; is conveniently arranged with sliding half-globe cups for change, and to a retailer would seem to be a much greater safe-guard than his iron safe.

The thief-detecting money-drawer is ex-

The thief-detecting money-drawer is ex-biblted in Domestic Hall, by Mr. A. O. Miles, the General Agent, of Nashua, N. H., of whom rights can be had.

Britting & Brother, the well-known mu-sical instrument dealers, on Fifth-street, sical instrument dealers, on Fifth-street, have a fine show of pianos and melodeons in Domestic Hall. Among them we noticed two very pretty six-octave melodeons, and and a couple of square, grand pianos, one of Cincinnati manufacture, and the other made by Stech & Grupe, of New York; the latter is one of the finest-toned instruments we ever heard, and attracted deserved attention. They have also on exhibition some piano-cases, showing their internal construction, and a case of keys, pedals, &c., which are fine specimens of workmanship. which are fine specimens of workmanship.

SUGAR EVAPORATOR.

Simmons & Co., of Hillsboro, Illinois, have on exhibition one of their sugar evaporators, for making sorghum and maple sugar, which we shall notice more at length at another time.

Another Celestial Phenomenon-Venus Visible at Noon-day,—One-half the in-habitants of the city became star-gazers at noon yesterday; for at every corner crowds were to be seen with eyes eagerly directed upward and westward, some witnessing, and others vainly endeavoring to see, the planet Venus, which was bright enough, notwith-standing the light of the sun, to be visible to standing the light of the sun, to be visible to the naked eye.

The sky was very clear and violst-hued throughout its whole expanse, with the ex-ception of a few fleecy, white clouds that here and there dotted the blue, and looked like distant sails upon a summer sea. The planet had passed the meridian, apparently, about thirty degrees, and a little south of west nearly midway knives the horizon.
